

LEAD THE FIGHT AGAINST CANCER IN A POPULATION-BASED ENVIRONMENT

President BC CANCER AGENCY

As the President of the British Columbia Cancer Agency (BCCA), you will lead an organization that's not satisfied with the status quo and, as a result, has cancer outcomes that are the best in Canada and among the best in the world. With BC's centrally organized and managed cancer care system for its population of 4.5 million, BCCA combines an enormous sense of passion and urgency for fighting a complex disease. Working with a team of talented and dedicated oncologists, researchers and care providers, you will also contribute to the ongoing evolution, development and implementation of population-based cancer control strategies. With clear lines of provincial funding and authority through the Provincial Health Services Authority, BCCA is in a unique position to continue its move forward in the academic and clinical cancer world. You will become its voice and its champion.

With a paradigm shift underway as the science moves towards molecular medicine, you will work with stakeholders in the provincial healthcare system to ensure that the BCCA has a clearly defined direction and resolve to succeed. Ensure research continues to thrive. Sit on the Executive Council of the PHSA and contribute to the overall strategic leadership of its provincial health services. Campaign for sufficient funding to continue the leading edge work. Encourage innovation and drive reasoned decision-making down into the organization. Bolster an infrastructure that will support and foster a strong intellectual and research culture aligned to make a significant impact on the future of cancer control.

As the ideal candidate, you will be a strategic health care leader with a strong clinical background and demonstrated management skills gained in an academic health sciences center environment or other complex health care environment. Ideally, you will be an MD with a broad understanding of cancer care and cancer research.
